SEVEN MONTHS' WAR.

It is now almost seven months since Germany started out to capture Paris. Since then she has been striving to capture Calais and Warsaw, but in none of the ventures has she been successful. She still has an advantage gained by her complete readiness for the war. But as time passes it is found that she has not been so strong as she was at first. She is finding it more and more difficult to maintain her position in the field. She is finding it more and more difficult to maintain her position in the field. She is finding it more and more difficult to maintain her position in the field.

expressed his firm determination to assist the Government to the best of his ability in its prosecution of the war, he has been left out in the cold by the Government. He has been treated as a political enemy. The time does not favor the holding of an election in Canada this year, not because it fears the result of an election. But he believes that this country can lead by its own example by avoiding what would divert the attention of the country from its chief business of making war against Germany. The time does not favor the holding of an election in Canada this year, not because it fears the result of an election. But he believes that this country can lead by its own example by avoiding what would divert the attention of the country from its chief business of making war against Germany.

INDIA'S PLACE IN THE EMPIRE.

Henry Cotton, in an article in the February number of the Contemporary Review, entitled, "India: New Light on the Situation," discusses the position of India in the Empire. He points out that India is not a mere appendage to the Empire, but a part of it. He points out that India is not a mere appendage to the Empire, but a part of it. He points out that India is not a mere appendage to the Empire, but a part of it.

ELECTION PROSPECTS.

The general impression among those on the outside is that the election is not a contest between the two parties. It is a contest between the two parties. It is a contest between the two parties. It is a contest between the two parties. It is a contest between the two parties.

"Good to be a Briton

The nights are very long, the sky is very grey, and the decks are very, very wet; but none of these things affect the spirits of the men, any more than the cold and wet trenches and the constant shell fire affect the spirits of these splendid soldiers of ours in Belgium. It is good to be a Briton nowadays.—Admiral Jellicoe
